Re: Energy Nexus

Special Issue title: SUSTAINABLE BIOTECHNOLOGIES FOR FOOD, FUEL AND ENVIRONMENT

Guest editor: Rajasri Yadavalli,

Dear, Dr. Rajasri Yadavalli,

Confirmation of appointment as guest editor

I am pleased to hear that you have agreed to act as the guest editor ("Guest Editor") of the Special Issue SUSTAINABLE BIOTECHNOLOGIES FOR FOOD, FUEL AND ENVIRONMENT ("the Special Issue") for Energy Nexus ("the Journal") published by Elsevier Ltd ("Elsevier" or "Publisher"). General Special Issue policies and procedures for the Journal are described below, along with specific information that relates to your appointment as Guest Editor of the Special Issue:

1. You are responsible, in cooperation with any other guest editor for the Special Issue, for the invitation, selection, review and editing of the manuscripts for the Special Issue, and the arrangement of the manuscripts for publication, and relations with authors <optional: provided that all manuscripts shall be submitted to the editor of the Journal ("the Journal Editor") or his/her nominee for approval prior to publication>. You agree to use your best efforts in cooperating with the Journal Editor and any other guest editor for the Special Issue with respect to the preparation and publication of the Special Issue.
2. You are responsible, in cooperation with any other guest editor for the Special Issue, for ensuring that the review process for the Special Issue is conducted in an appropriate manner and in line with normal review practices for the Journal. You shall consult with the Journal Editor about the refereeing procedure to be adopted. You will ensure that the same level of quality and the same standards for Special Issue manuscripts shall be maintained as for regularly contributed manuscripts to the Journal and that these shall be consistent with the standards as set by the Journal and Elsevier. You shall make the preliminary decision on all manuscripts following the peer-review processes of the Journal. The Journal Editor shall have the sole right to review and/or reject any manuscript or arrange for any manuscript(s) to be independently peer reviewed prior to final acceptance for publication.
3. In recognition of your time and effort put into supporting the Journal, and to help you with your efforts compiling this Special Issue, you will receive 6 months free access to the entire breadth of Scopus and ScienceDirect platforms. In addition, following publication of the first article of the Special Issue you will have the opportunity to publish up to three peer reviewed papers in the Journal free of article publishing charge, subject always to peer review and the Journal's usual procedures and provided that such papers are submitted within two years from the publication of that first article of the Special Issue.

Dear Dr. Yadavalli,

On behalf of our Chief Editor and the Frontiers in Energy Research team, congratulations on your position as review editor.

Your new board role is essential for a collaborative, transparent and efficient running of the Frontiers peer-review process. That is why we want to ensure that your work contribution is recognized.

As such, we'd like to offer you the opportunity to coordinate an article collection with us. You can find here a brochure with more information on this editorial role.

What does this entail?

- you'd bring together an editorial team of experienced researchers
- you'd be involved in defining the collection's scope
- your name would be acknowledged on the published collection

This is both a chance to shine a spotlight on the research you care about and expand your professional network.

Would you be interested in this editorial project? Please let me know - my team and I will be happy to discuss it further.

Best regards,
Paola Morelli, PhD
Journal Manager

January 20, 2021

Welcome to the IRC Scientific and Technical Committee & Editorial Review Board on Chemical and Materials Engineering.

On behalf of all of us as at the International Research Conference Series, we thank you for signing up for series membership. We believe that you will find the programs and activities of the International Research Conference Series innovative and a reflection of the shared interests and needs of its members. Your membership will allow us to provide you opportunities and tools to collaborate with your peers and to expose the global research community to your work. We are an organization committed to representing your interests and look forward to working with you to advance scientific research knowledge throughout the world.

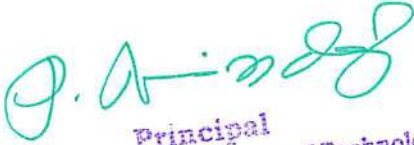

We invite you to contact us to suggest programs, events, or information services that you would like to see as a member of the International Research Conference Series member. Please bookmark our website www.waset.org, where you will find complete information on upcoming conferences and publications.

Again, on behalf of the ASB board and fellow members, we welcome you to the International Research Conference Series.

Sincerely,

International Research Conference Committee

Dear RAMESH,

Congratulations. I am delighted to inform you that you have been admitted as an Affiliate member of the Royal Society of Chemistry.

As an affiliate member you now have access to a range of services and activities to support you as you pursue your interest in the chemical sciences.

You can start using your benefits straight away, simply by logging in to your personalised member area at members.rsc.org. Here you can find all of the support available to you as an affiliate member, as well as update your details, alter your special interest groups, journal subscriptions and more.

To enter your member area you will require the login details below.

Membership ID: 715063

During the application process, you will have chosen your own personal password, but if you need to change it at any time you can do so here.

By engaging with us as a member you help strengthen our position as a leading voice and influence for the chemical science community. Our success as an organisation comes from our members' depth of experience and commitment to advancing chemistry, together.

Look out for more information over the coming weeks as we help you to get the most out of your membership. Whether you join us at our monthly online membership drop in or you get inspiration from our welcome emails, we are here to guide you through your membership to make sure you get the most value and best experience as part of our community.

Before you explore all of the services and activities available to you, we would be grateful if you would take the time to complete a short survey that enables us to improve our services to better support you and your needs.

If you would like to know more about how you can get involved in any of our activities, or how we can support your own professional and/or personal development, please do not hesitate to contact the membership team by sending us an email or calling us on (01223) 432141 .

Sub. : Thesis entitled " Performance Evaluation and Design of Scalable Job Recommender system using Deep Learning Technique." submitted by Ms. Ravita V. Mishra for Ph.D. (Science & Technology) Degree in the subject of Computer Engineering.

Sir/Madam,

By the direction of the Board of Examinations and Evaluation, I have great pleasure in inviting you, on the panel recommended by the Research and Recognition Committee for the Board of Studies in Computer Engineering to act jointly as referee in the matter of the thesis submitted by the aforesaid for the Ph.D. degree in Computer Engineering of this University and to report to the Board of Examinations and Evaluation, through me, in accordance with the procedure mentioned overleaf the thesis be accepted or rejected for the award of the degree of Ph.D. (Science & Technology) Degree from this University. An honorarium of Rs.1500/- is payable to external referees for examining the thesis and for holding viva-voce examination. The thesis and bill form for the honorarium will be sent to you in a due course of time. You are requested to submit your acceptance in the enclosed proforma within fortnight from the date of receipt of this letter. I enclosed herewith a copy of the synopsis of the thesis submitted by the above candidate for your perusal. Kindly favour me with your acceptance of the invitation. You are also requested to send your curriculum-vita, to update referees panel in the various subject of Research.

P.S. Kindly communicate your acceptance in the matter so as to enable this office to forward the soft copy of thesis for evaluation.

1. The thesis will be referred for examination and report to three referees : i.e. two external and internal referee who is always being the guiding teacher. All the three referees should submit their individual evaluation report of the thesis to the University. The viva-voce examination shall be held after the evaluation reports, from all the referees are received. In order to make the recommendation clear, the last sentence of the individual and the viva-voce reports should be as follows :- "I/We recommend that the thesis be accepted /rejected for award of the degree of Ph.D."
2. The referees are requested to make a definite recommendation with a thirty days from the date of receipt of a copy of thesis with regard to the suitability or otherwise of the thesis for the award of the degree and also to state the grounds on which the recommendation is based.
3. Attention of the referees is invited to the provisions in this behalf of the Circular No.Th./897, dated 12th February, 1979 is as under :-

"Where the examiners have suggested some modifications/improvement of a thesis on certain suggested lines or pointed out certain lacunae in a thesis, the candidate should be asked to reply or to modify the thesis on the suggested lines. The viva-voce examination should be held only when the thesis on the suggested lines. The viva-voce examination should be held only when the thesis has been finally recommended for acceptance for the award of the degree."

In the case of the difference of opinion among the referees, the matter shall be held with in accordance with the provision of the relevant ordinances. (copy enclosed)

Title of the thesis:	A Rough Set Theory Based Mining Techniques for the Categorization of Facial Skin Disorders
Name of the student:	Pakalapati M. Prasuna
Regn. No.:	1003PH0659
Department:	Computer Science and Engineering
University:	Jawaharlal Nehru Technological University, Hyderabad

Summary of the thesis

This thesis addresses an important issue, that is rarely addressed, that is the side effects of various cosmetic products on the facial skin health. With the help of data mining techniques based on rough set theory, the facial skin is categorized into healthy skin and skin having any disorder(s).

The thesis starts with Introduction in the 1st chapter, introducing the reader to the notion of data mining using rough sets, feature extraction, and also cosmetics industry related details. A detailed review of related literature is presented in 2nd chapter.

Chapter 3 presents feature discretization, including discretization using rough sets. Rough set theory-based feature selection/reduction and clustering/classification are presented in chapters 4 and 5. The results generated out of this thesis are presented in chapter 6 and the thesis is summarized and conclusions drawn are presented in chapter 7.

Overall, this is a good research effort.

Questions for the student

The student may be asked to answer the following questions at the time of her viva-voce examination.

1. The first question is about the motivation to use rough set theory-based data mining – would simple machine learning based classification techniques to classify the face into categories such as disorder-free or having a particular disorder have been adequate?
2. Either in chapter 3 or in chapter 4, the student's own contribution is not coming out explicitly. It seems like an extended literature survey. It will be helpful if the student's contribution is made clear with a section title "Proposed method for".
3. The expansion of POSai is not found anywhere. This should be mentioned in full expanded form first time with the abbreviation within brackets.
4. For clustering, K-Means and K-Medoids are both used. The student may comment whether K-Medoids would have suited equally well or K-Means was better for the application she was working on.
5. Is it correct to say that cosmetics are the sole reason for the facial skin disorders? What about the case of getting exposed to sun, dust, smoke and in general pollution due to daily commute to work and study? Can such exposure too cause facial skin disorder? Is this factored into the data mining, whether the users of cosmetics generally stay at home or engage in daily commute?

I

6. Facial skin disorders like acne etc. may also be caused due to dietary imbalance like excessively oily food. Another factor is stressful living style which can give under-eye black-patches. What normalization was performed by the student so that all other factors are maintained uniform, and only the use of cosmetics would have caused the facial skin disorders?

I

Examiners Report on thesis entitled "A Rough Set Theory Based Mining Techniques for the Categorization of Facial Skin Disorders" submitted by Ms. Pakalapati M Prasuna, Reg. No. 1003PH0659.

This thesis is presented in 7 chapters while Chapter 6 is devoted to the Results and Chapter 7 is for the conclusion. Chapters 1 and 2 introduce the problem and give an overview of the literature associated to the problem. The problem domain that is face care and the issues with it are introduced in Chapter 2. Other relevant methods and techniques used in this work like feature range selection and clustering methods are also introduced. The core and significant part of the work is seen in Chapter 3-5. These I concentrate upon in the rest of this report.

In this thesis an approach to classify facial disorder categorization is presented that uses rough set theory (RST). It is noted that a clustering approach was used for disorder analysis with 94.5 % accuracy, which is a significant result. Proposed model performs discretization. RST approach is applied with a reduct model to reduce the number of features so as to focus on most relevant features. RST was also useful to improve the cluster quality. The most important results are presented in Chapter 6. Candidate has implemented an approach in ANACONDA SPYDER platform with a data set of 127545 samples. This is a suitably good sized data set.

Table 6.3 shows that only 16 iterations were needed to generate the reducts for the feature set finalization. Classification using SVM and CVBM were shown and compared. Proposed method was shown to be better (Fig. 6.5, 6.6) Precision and recall parameters are shown in Fig. 6.13 and are also consistent with a good approach. F1 scores shown are sufficient to derive the conclusions.

It is also noted that the candidate has presented a method to form clusters (page 95). Later the clusters are converted to classes by the RST method. The crucial contribution is seen in terms of the Algorithm 5.8 where based on a discernibility matrix efficient rule extraction is presented with a decision table.

In Figure 5.2 an image is depicted that shows the domain problem with the picture showing a subject who has the reaction. It appears that this is the same image used by her in the journal publication. It would be more satisfactory if the features and images were corroborated so that we have a visual representation of the features and the disorders. However this is not a major deficiency. It is my advice that the candidate must work further to bring the work to its logical conclusion by applying methods of well know RST expert that is Prof. Pawan J Lingras and his work on "Applying Rough Set Concepts to Clustering", January 2012, with DOI: http://dx.doi.org/10.1007/978-1-4471-2760-4_2. In fact, candidate must pursue publishing in better journals and not just stop with this thesis.

In view of the publications in journals and conferences which are adequate and the good presentation of the thesis I find there are no changes or modifications to be made. Therefore I hereby recommend the award of the degree to the candidate as it suitably reaches the standard for award of the PhD degree.

Main features of the thesis:

- This thesis makes use of Discretization using Rough Set Theory which is described as a method of transforming the values of continuous data attributes into a certain number of intervals.
- Reduct generation using Rough Set Theory is performed. The features considered are reduced by applying the reduct operation that reduces the time complexity of the model.
- Clustering and Classification are performed using Rough Set Theory and deducing the rules for categorization of facial skin disorders with better accuracy.
- The performance is analyzed by comparing with the traditional methods for verifying the accuracy levels and time complexity.

Report

Chapter 1 gives a brief introduction of DataMining and about the different Clustering and Classification models

Chapter 2 provides a survey on the existing facial disorder analysis models

Chapter 3 describes the process of Discretization using Rough Set Theory and the need for discretization.

Chapter 4 provides a brief description of reduct generation process using Rough Set Theory.

Chapter 5 discusses the cluster formation, classification and rules discovery.

Chapter 6 investigate the results and chapter 7 concludes the thesis by providing the analysis of outcome of the applied algorithms.

Observations

- The thesis is well organized.
- The result analysis is done.

Corrections to be made

- Include year of publication for all publications (Pg 143)

This thesis attains the standard required for the award of Ph. D degree

Questions:

- How exactly will the categorization of facial skin disorders help the cosmetic industry to suggest best products to customers?
- How is your rough set based technique different from the available rough set methods for classification?
- How do you define facial skin disorder?
- In Pg 118, (2nd para 2nd line) what do you mean by collected mining tools?
- Is 'annual amount spent on cosmetic products' one of the attribute? (referred in Pg 119)
